People are the most valuable asset in any enterprise. Every business starts, grows and excels on the quality of its people as well as its approach to recruiting them, developing them and managing them.

What do we deliver?

Recruitment on gowhereurcelebrated.com gowhereurcelebrated.com is a highly interactive website which promotes movement of talent into environments where they add maximum value and are valued for their contributions. The site provides candidates with access to an online job interview and skills training tool as well as a variety of job opportunities on the international market. It also serves as a recruitment tool for clients.

Our recruitment services focus on getting quality personnel into roles where their skills are in high demand. We work with clients in Nigeria and the UK recruiting personnel into temporary and permanent jobs.

Expatriate Contracts

We run an expatriate contract scheme which supplies skilled professional expatriates to consulting firms focused on delivering change and transformation projects in developing countries. Working as contractors to the consulting firm, our expatriates execute short term projects within the developing country. The scheme offers many benefits;

- Expatriates are exposed to work in developing countries.
- Local companies can tap into high quality human resource from developed economies
- Local personnel are exposed to new ways and approaches to operating in the workplace by interacting with the expatriates.

Consulting

Our human resource and business consulting service is focused on delivering value to client's business through increased income, cost reduction, improved efficiency or increased effectiveness. We work with clients on leadership development, manpower planning, talent management, risk management and performance management. We are also specialists in team building and organisational design.

Our goal is the development of an excellent working environment and the full exploitation of the people resource. To achieve this, an initial assessment is carried out and this often leads to tackling strategic and business issues alongside the core human resource component.

Training

Our faculty comprises experienced training experts and business area specialists. We deliver both in house and off site training programmes and provide role specific training programmes to both public and private sector organisations.

Skills Development

We deliver a variety of schemes aimed at developing the skills base of the communities where we operate. These include our internship scheme which is focused at the businesses and aims to develop tailored schemes that will create a structured pathway for high caliber local graduates to join client organisations from the higher education system. We also run a modular training programme called Upskill™. Focused directly at the individual market, it seeks to encourage the development of specific soft and hard skills especially in areas where deficiencies have been identified.

Are you a candidate seeking your next permanent or contract opportunity or an employer requiring an innovative approach to recruiting, developing and managing people? We look forward to hearing from you.
